Dear Sir,-I am honored by kind and loving invitation to America, but it is quite out of the question. I am chained to the oar. The item in this correspondence about the feeling of the troops in this State in regard to the participation of negroes in the national drill had a good effect. It drew out of Mr. T. C. De Leon a clear answer. De Leon's first telegram was neither clear nor satisfac tory. Last night Captain Edward B Engelhard, of the Governor's Guard, sent your correspondent the following letter: "The following will explain itself. It refers to your special to the Dispatch about this vexed question. It is a special from Mr. De Leon, just received. He says: 'A special from Raleigh published that my dispatch was not clear. If negro companies come they will be encamped separately and drill separately." This settles the question to the satisfaction of all the troops from the South, no doubt.

Near this city at a late hour last night there was a very exciting occurrence, which might have had a fatal ending. It is the old, old story of the faithless wife and the lover. A man, who is an under-officer at the peniten tiary, has a young and comely wife. Last night this man went home unex-pectedly, only to find the house empty. The wife had gone. He was a patient man, and waited. Presently up rolled driver jumped to the ground, and was in the act of opening the door of the vehicle, when the husband, who was standing in his porch, began a rapid fire upon the vehicle and its contents. This was too much for the driver, who sprang upon his box and drove like one possessed. He made the best time into the city, and was arrested by a policeman for fast driving. The wife has returned to her husband, while her lover literally "skipped by the light of the moon." The result will be the moon.' broken-up family circle and the attendant unhappiness.

MAY'S HORSEWHIP.

She Uses it Smartly on Jesse Thorne Who Had Been Her Accepted

[New York Sun.] May Ellingsworth, a handsome blonde nineteen years old, of 104½ Storm avenue, Jersey City, horse-whipped Jesse Thorne on Tuesday night. He is a shipping-clerk in a wholesale dry-goods house in this city. He formed the acquaintance of the girl a year ago, and after a brief courtship they were engaged. The wedding was set down for one week from next Sun-day, and cards were sent to their friends. On Saturday night Thorne called at the house, it is said, and asked to be released from the engagement because of his inability port a wife. The girl consented and he eturned to Sixty-sixth street, in this city, where he lives. The next evening, when Miss Ellingsworth and Miss Darrow, the daughter of her landlady, were returning home from an errand to were returning home from an errand to a drugstore, Miss Ellingsworth saw Thorne and a girl on the opposite side of the street. She left her friend at the gate of their home and followed the couple to a house in Bergen ave-nue. Thorne bade the girl good night, and said he would see her on Tuesday sight. This Miss Ellingsworth overtht. This Miss Ellingsworth over heard.

On Tuesday night she secreted herself in the doorway of the Bergen Reformed church and waited for Thorne to pass on his way to the house of the girl. At 84 o'clock he did so. Miss Ellingsworth drew from beneath her cloak a whip, and as he passed the door she assaulted him. A half a dozen times the whip was laid across his face and shoulders before he could retreat.

When he was able to do so he ran to a Montgomery-street car, bound for the ferry. Just as he did so Edward Gillespie and James Kennedy came up to the church. They volunteered to catch Thorne and give him another thrashing. This, however, Miss Ellingsworth objected to, and she went home.

jected to, and she went home.

Yesterday she said that two years ago she was left an orphan in Glasgow. She came to this country to find an aunt residing, as she supposed, in Brooklyn. When she arrived here she learned that the aunt had gone West. She had about $3,000, but she accepted a place as saleswoman in a store in this city. Five weeks ago she went to Jersey City to board with Mrs. Darrow. She resigned her place, and devoted her time to preparing her trousseau, drawing heavily on her bank account for the purpose. She is much distressed at the purpose. She is much distressed at the unfortunate result of her love affair, and she now regrets that she resorted to a horsewhip.

IT WAS MR. HERCHMER. The Andalusia Mystery Cleared Up Beyond a Doubt.

A Philadelphia special says: Mr. C. F. Gildersleeve, who is a brother-in-law of the gentleman who died on the road-side near Andalusia station on Thursday morning a week ago, arrived in Eristol this morning a little after 9 o'clock, having travelled all night from his home, in Belleville, Ontario. Mr. Gildersleeve, accompanied by Coroner Silbert, went into the little white cellar that is used in lien of an officia morgue, took one view of the denman's face, and said: "It is just as I expected; it is George." He added that he wanted to have the body taken home at once, and Undertaker Rue immediately began to make hurried arrangements for sending the body away. Mr. Gildersleeve said to a Times reporter: "George S. Herchmer was a very bright businessman, and on account of his well-known business qualities he had been chosen by the Canada Central Bank to repre sent them at an agency lately opened at Prampton, Ontario. All went well for awhile, but during March he was suspended by the gene-rel company from the presidency of the local bank on account of his irregular habits, and they sent au inspector on to go over the books. found out upon inspection that George had overdrawn his own private account about $2,500. This was made good by his friends and the matter was satisfactorily settled. He did not settle down after this, but continued his bad habits, which finally culminated in his leaving Brampton on pretence of visiting his mother at Belleville and in his coming to the United States, and subsequently to his most unfortunate death on a public highway. When a man drinks no one can tell what will become of him. In speaking of the dead man's family Mr. Gildersleeve said: "His grand-father, old Captain Herchmer, came to Canada in 1776. He had two sons one of whom was a clergyman. George was descended from the son who went into business. Colonel Herchmer, of Quebec, commanding officer of the Northwest Mounted Police, is his brother. His aged mother lives in Belleville with his younger sister. He had a wife, but no children."

Mr. Gildersleeve, who is a wealthy steamboat-owner, started home the body at 5 o'clock.

BOYTON'S WATERY TRIP. He Reaches Poughkeepsie Tuesday Evening and Takes a Rest.

A Poughkeepsie (N. Y.) telegram of April 6th says: Paul Boyton, the swim-mer, had a fine day for his trip to-day, He reached Rhinecliff from Barrytown at 8:15 A. M., having encountered considerable ice. Quite a crowd witnessed his arrival and followed him to a hotel on the wharf, where he remained until 12:45 P. M., when he donned his suit, feet first, for Poughkeepsie, followed by the miniature craft Baby Mine in tow and the press boat containing Wallace Ross and reporters. He used his paddle lively, and as the current was strong and wind heavy from the north he made good time, passing Staatsburg at 3 P. M., Hyde Park at 4 P. M., and reaching Poughkeepsie at 5.47 P M He met with no ice ob structions whatever from Rhinecliff, nor will be encounter any ice from here to New York. As he paddled along the front of this city crowds cheered him, bells were rung, and there was a shrieking of steam whistles. In reply Boyton stood up in the water as he floated along and fired several rockets, and was again cheered. Soon after he clamstreet and entered the Exchange Hotel, where a we'll-warmed room was in wait-ing for him. Here he was stripped and rabbed, and after that came supper, which he partook of heartily. After supper Boyton complained a little of dyspepsia, but it was nothing serious, and he laid down and rested, intending to start for Newburg at 1 A. M., expecting to reach there at 6:30 A. M., where rooms have been engaged for him at the United States Hotel. He will rest six hours at Newburg and then start to go through the Highlands. He thinks he will reach the Battery before dark on Sunday. He said to the Times representatives that he was apprehensive of rough water in the Tappansee, where the river is the widest, and if se it will delay him. He is in the best of spirits and looks forward to his arrival New York with pleasure. He certainly looks well. IN MEMORY OF DR. SIMS.

The Selection of a Design for the Monument Not Yet Made.

[New York Times.] The design for a monument to Dr. J Marion Sims will not be selected until That was settled yesterday, when Alexander Doyle, Giovanni Turini, Wilson MacDonald, and Car Schmidt, sculptors, who had submitted designs to the committee in charge of the monument fund, received letters from Dr. Shrady, its chairman, stating that no award would be made at present. Dr. Shrady's associates on the committee are Drs. Barker, Fmmet, Polk, and Lusk. About $7,500 have been subscribed by old friends of Dr. Sims, who desire to show their appreciation of his services to science and his benefaction to the city in founding the Woman's Hospital. Through the aid of the Medical Record Dr. Shrady and his co-workers raised the sum necessary to erect a suitable monument Many sculptors offered models and de signs, and from them ten submitted by the sculptors named were picked out. These designs have been exhibited at the Academy of Medicine, and, as the physicians could not agree upon choice, three sculptors—J. Q. A. Ward, Augustus St. Gaudens, and Launt Thompson—were called in to give ad-

"The committee," said Dr. Shrady last night, "does not desire it under last night, "does not desire it understood that its action in any way reflects upon the merits of the designs presented. They were all good; but, for reasons not necessary to state, it was deemed desirable to delay the award and enlarge the competing list. Each one of the gentlemen who are already one of the gentlemen who are already represented are privileged to present other models. The competition is still open, and other sculptors than those whose designs we now have may enter the lists. We have rejected nothing. We have simply made no selection, and we have not bound ourselves to confine our choice to those designs already in our hands. The monument will be a standing figure of bronze, and we expect to place it in Central Park."

All citizens troubled with coughs or colds should at once use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

CABINET AND THE PISHERIES. Important International Questions of Scals.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

Washington, April 7.—The Cabinet met at 11 o'clock to-day, in accordance with the plan for the summer months, and remained in session over three hours. The meeting was devoted almost entirely to the consideration of intentional continue the most iminternational questions, the most important relating to the Canadian-fisheries policy of Great Britain, in regard to the island of Hayti, and the seal-fisheries of Alaska. In regard to the fisheries question it is un-derstood that information has been received to the effect that England sustains the position taken by the Canadian authorities, and is in nowise disposed to make the concessions requested by this Government. This question was considered by the Cabinet with a view to the advisability of suitable action by the President un-der the provisions of the retaliatory act.
The alleged demand of Great Britain for the possession of the Tortugas islands or payment by the Haytien Government of $1,000,000 in the settle-ment of old claims was considered at some length. The United States have great interests in Hayti, commercial and otherwise, and are deeply concerned in its welfare and prosperity.
Correspondence will be opened with England on this subject.
The Alaska seal-fisheries were discussed with a view to their better protection from foreign interference. is represented that the interests are now threatened by the wanton and whole-sale slaughter of seals in open ocean. It seems that during the day female seals leave their young on the shoresof the islands in charge of the males white they go miles away in search of food, with which they return at night. Recently the practice has spring up of catching the female seals while they are in search of food. Their young perish, as a matter of course, and the perpetu ation of the animals is endangered The difficulty of controlling this mat ter arises from the alleged want of jurisdiction of our Government overthese waters beyond three-miles limit. The question will be again considered at a future meeting.

Shot at by a Canadian Cruiser. (By telegraph to the Dispatch.)
St. John's, N. B., April 7.—News has reached here that the fishery-cruiser Vigilant, when sailing out of Beaver harbor a few days ago, sighted an American fishing vessel within the three-mile limit and evidently after beit. The Vigilant gave chase and gained on the "Yankee," who refused to heave to, even when a blank shot was fired. The chase was continued, but the American vessel soon gained the line and was safe. This is the first gun fired this season by a Canadian cruiser.

A DEPENDER FOR THE CUP. General Paine to Build a New Steel

Yacht to Meet the Thistle.

A Boston telegram says: Before the time comes for the trial races Boston will have another yacht to defend the America's cup against the Thistle. Edward Burgess will be the designer and General Paine the owner of the new boat. The plans for the new vesse are nearly completed, and her architect is confident that she will prove even more fleet a craft than either the Puritan or the Mayflower. the Thistle's dimensions became known General Paine was one of the first to recognize the fact that the designer had made a great stride forward, and that the new boat would prove a troublesome customer. The General waited to see what would be done about it by other parties, and as no one stepped forward he determined to build a new boat. When asked about it Mr. Burgess said : Yes, General Payne has decide build a new steel yacht, just about the same size as the Mayflower. She is to be built at Pusey & Jones's Works, Wilmington, Del. The contract was sent the day before yesterday, and work will be begun at once. The lines are about made and part of the plating is ready. Mr. Pusey was in Boston two days ago, and the details have been agreed upon. The plating will be steel, averaging five sixteenths and one quar ter of an inch. The new yacht will have an overhanging bow, the stern to be similar to the Maytlower's. The building of the new yacht will make no difference as to the Mayflower's trip to England. She will sail across and race for the cups if Mr. Chamberlayne's conditions are fair. As to the dimensions of the new yacht, you can say that she is about the same size as the May-flower, within a few inches of her dimensions, except that she will have clipper bow, and consequently will be longer on deck. There is no great difference between her and the Mayflower. Work has already begun, as Mr. Pusey has taken sufficient data to begin the keel. No definite time in which to complete the new yacht has been de cided on, but she will be built in the shortest possible time. Her scantling will be steel throughout. Her stringers and the plates will also be of steel. Her deck will be laid in white-pine. The sails have not been let out yet, but estimates will be asked for in a few days."

Only a few personal friends of General Paine had any idea of his intentions as to the building of the new steel yacht. A gentleman well up in naval architecture, who has seen the plans, predicts that the new yacht will give the Thistle such a race as the Scottish syndicate never dreamed of. Mr. Burgess made the plans in less than a week, General Paine not having reached a de-cision to build until a day or two after the Thistle's dimensions were made public. The details of the new boat's dimensions are not yet made public, but it is evident from the general de-scription given out that her sail area will be about the same as that of the Mayflower; her ballast, also about the same, will be carried a trifle lower. It will be cast in her keel.

BIG BOYS ON A LARK.

How They Came to Grief Through Using a Conl-Car for a Toboggan.

(Pittsburgh Dispatch.) Five prominent Southsiders have been imping gaits and some with scratched cheeks and noses. Their characters are such that no one would suspect them of fighting, but when their friends questioned them as to how or where they were injured all made evasive replies. But the secret leaked out. One of the pleasant afternoons of last week the party of five (among whom were a deective and a well-known politician took a walk out on the Brownsville road. On the Rankins farm they sawan empty coal-car sitting on the track of the coalroad at the top of a steep grade. Mindful of early days when coasting was a standard amusement, or else having pleasant recollections of toboggan slides in riper years, one proposed taking a

"All ready. Let 'er go, Gallagher!"

She went. She did more; she fairly flew. The improvised brake failed to work, and the coal-car soon gained a speed that the best engine on the Pennsylvania railroad probably never surpassed. John Gilpin's famous ride was a snail's pace in comparison. In rounding a bend the car jumped the track, overturned, and the air was instantly filled with legs, arms, Chicago Carpenters' Troubles. (By telegraph to the Dispatch.

CHICAGO, April 7 .- The striking carpenters met at noon and by unanimous vote rejected the proposition made by the bosses and reaffirmed the demand for 35c. an hour pay and full recognition of the Carpenters' Council as a body of organized labor. The proposition of the employers was to con-cede eight hours and make 30c. an hour the minimum pay, with grades above, but not to recognize anything but the individual rights of the men. All union carpenters in Hyde Park, to the number of 200, struck at noon to-day for 35 cents an hour. A short time ago the rate was raised from 27 to 31 cents an hour, and they agreed to work at that rate for one year. They struck to-day out of sympathy for the carpenters in Chicago.

EPITHELIOMA SKIN-CANCER.

For seven years I suffered with a cancer on my face. All the simple remedies were applied to alleviate the pain, but the place continued to grow, finally extending to my nose, from which came a yellowish discharge very offensive in came a yellowise instance of the character. It was also inflamed, and annoyed me a great deal. About eight months ago I was in Atlanta, at the heuse of a friend, who so strongly recommended the use of Swift's Specific that I determined to make an effort to procure it. In this I was successful, and began its use. The influence of the medicine at first was to somewhat aggravate the sore, but soon the inflammation was allayed, and I began t improve after the first few bottles. My general health has greatly improved. I am stronger, and am able to do any kind of work. The cancer on my face began to decrease and the ulce to heal until there is not a vestige of it left. Only a little scar marks the place where it had been. I am ready to answer all questions rela-tive to this cure.

MRS. JOICIE A. McDONALD.

In 1861 a cancer developed on my lower lip. I went under treatment at once, and from time to time since that have had medical aid in New Orleans. Boston, and New York with no benefit at all. It has progressed right along, and now involves my jaw and cheek. One thousand dolars would not cover the lose sustained through the medical and surgical aid I have received. I have certainly tried everything, and was benefited by nothing until I took S. S. S. It has done me more good than all else put together, and I believe I will seen be sound and well. Swift's Specific is certainly a great boon to humanity.
